

4. "Have hope! God has not forgotten us, we won't be scattered forever. One day, we'll return to our old homes and invite our new friends and neighbors to stay with us. We'll laugh, celebrate, and experience God's abundant life together."

3. "God is near, can you feel it? Cry out! God hears you! I know you miss home but look: God already set us a table overflowing with milk, wine, bread, and life for everyone to come and be filled up."

1. Isaiah was a prophet during a time when many Israelites were forced to move to new towns far away. It was hard to learn new languages, make new friends, and find new jobs—it felt like God had forgotten about them.

2. "Hey everyone, listen to this good news!" Isaiah cried out, "Everyone who is thirsty, come to the overflowing fountain; those who have no money, come and eat! There's no need for prices or money because abundant life is for all."
